

A white high-speed train with a prominent red stripe running horizontally along its side. The train is positioned on a platform, with a large glass and steel structure visible in the background. The train's body is sleek and aerodynamic. On the side, there is a blue logo of a crown above the word "Arnhem". Below this, a large window reflects the surrounding environment. Further down, a smaller oval window is visible. The number "4652" is printed in grey on the side of the train. A red stripe runs horizontally across the middle of the train's body. The text "Arnhem" is written in blue above the stripe. The number "4652" is written in grey below the stripe. The letters "IC" are partially visible in large blue font on the right side of the train.
